

CIE student wins second place in “Lower Carbon, Greener Future” English Essay Writing Competition

浸大國際學院同學贏取明報主辦英文寫作比賽亞軍

Vicky Wan, an Associate Degree year one (Journalism) student, who recently won second place in a writing contest held by Ming Pao was inspired by her favorite quote by Thomas Fuller, “Knowledge is a treasure, but practice is the key to it”. Vicky took the leap and decided to practice what she had learnt. Her decision later proved to be right.

With the topic of “Lower Carbon, Greener Future”, Vicky wrote a convincing article concerning environmental issues; she argues in her article that a greener future relies on a greener attitude of humans. Her writing not only won her a seven-day trip to Australia and a scholarship of HKD1500, but it also gave her a priceless experience. She expressed, “This competition is a great experience for me. It proved that the things I had learnt in CIE are not just examination-based, but applicable in different situations”.

Vicky Wan won her seven-day trip to Australia and a scholarship by joining Mingpao's writing competition.

Group photo of winners together with organizers and sponsors of the competition.